Important information before you complete your submission

Availability and sharing of your article

If accepted for publication, your article will be made immediately available for everyone to read, share and reuse in the ways defined by the Creative Commons end user license you select. Author rights are separate and are described on Elsevier's copyright page.

Institutional and funder agreements

If accepted, any fees covered under agreements are subject to institution or funder approval, and fund availability. You may wish to check before proceeding.

Payment of open access fees

Open access fees only apply if accepted. Payment is your responsibility. If we invoice your institution and don't receive payment, or if fees covered under agreements are not approved, we will reissue the invoice to you. Or, if the journal allows it, you can choose to publish subscription at no cost to you.

Rights and access

If accepted, you must complete a publishing agreement to ensure we publish your article in the way you want. If the publishing agreement is not completed, we will apply a default Creative Commons end user license. Or, if the journal allows it, we will publish it as a subscription article.

If you don't agree to the above and to the full Elsevier terms and conditions of purchase for open access services you should not proceed with your submission.
